Travelling exhibitions: Planning and adapting exhibitions to travel abroad. In the last five years more than 20 exhibitions travelled in museums abroad such as the Hermitage Museum, National Gallery of Budapest, Taipei Museum in Taiwan, and Bundeskunsthalle in Bonn.

These departments work as support to all the curatorial activities of the Museum such as: collection management and conservation, exhibitions editing and installations, publications of catalogues and books, travelling exhibitions, incoming and exporting loans, etc.

My role consists of being in charge of: synchronizing activities, making priorities, developing working methods for each of the departments together with their direct manager.

Curator Jewish Art and Life

In charge of the permanent collection of Synagogue Route: enriching the collection, developing contacts with donors, curating exhibitions and special displays. Guiding and developing content related with Synagogue architecture.

Co-curator of Israeli Pavilion at 16th International Venice biennale for architecture.

"In statu quo: architecture of negotiations"

The exhibition deals with contested holy sites which because of their supreme religious importance and local complexity operate through a delicate web of political negotiations and agreements that have earned their general title: 'Status Quo'. The show will explore the way of living and coexisting of these places through the meticulously performed daily life activities, rituals and ceremonies.
